Old Favorites and New Delights Featured at Labor Day Festival

by Sandra Smith

The Greenbelt Labor Day Festival opens early Friday, August 31 with a senior citizens swim party. Throughout Friday, community groups and organizations will be preparing and decorating their carnival booths.

The first musical performance of the Festival is the traditional opening performance of the Greenbelt Concert Band under the direction of John Delhomme. Jean Cook sings the National Anthem and then the Opening Ceremonies begin. City and local officials gather on the Stage and the Outstanding Citizen for the year is named.

Thus begins the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival — a four-day celebration with entertainment, games, contests, activities, shows, exhibitions, sports, and recreation for all ages. Most Greenbelters will visit the Festival some time during the weekend and visitors from throughout the area will also stop by. See full schedule for the Festival on the center pages of this issue only of the News Review.

On the stage

The Labor Day Festival will host performers new to the Festival such as Idlewild, the Reason and the Network as well as welcoming back the Ralph Case Square Dancers, Christian the Magician, Ray Owen and Partner in Song.

Idlewild, a modern rock and funk band entertains Friday night. The five-member band has played together for six years and styles its hard blues rock style in the vein of Led Zeppelin and The Allman Brothers. Three singers accompany the band. Saturday night The Reason will perform rock and soul classics as well as original music written by Tim Ellis, the guitarist, lead vocalist and main songwriter. Like Idlewild, The Reason play in many well-known clubs in the Washington and Baltimore areas.

Another group new to the Festival is Network. They combine top-40 pop and soul with a blend of classic rock. An eight-member band known for its energized performances and featuring lead vocalist Iris Halliburton, Network will be on the stage Saturday afternoon. On Sunday catch Charlie and Dora, the Demma's, a husband and wife team in an act from the days of vaudeville. Tap dancing, music, singing impressions of former great vaudeville stars along with mini-instructions in the art of tap dancing are featured in the Demma's fast-paced act.

The Capital City Jazz Band, led by Rudy Adler, is a Greenbelt favorite as are the Ralph Case Square Dancers who entertain Sunday night and usually have most of the audience dancing with them.

This year the Festival includes two performers in the art of Mime. Mark Jaster will be roving the carnival area entertaining on Saturday and Tammy Galizer will perform there on Sunday. Ray Owen returns to entertain with the classic tunes from the 60s, 70s and 80s and comedy routines. He has toured with Alabama, Arlo Guthrie and Bob Hope. Tracy McDonnell is a folk singer who writes much of her own music and is known for her distinctive guitar work and clear, strong voice.

Christian the Magician is a frequent and popular act at the Labor Day Festival. He has entertained at the White House, National Theater and Wolf Trap and has new and baffling routines for this year's performance. The Blue Sky Puppets will present "The Three (Not So Little) Pigs" as an offbeat and hilarious adaptation of this children's classic. Mike Kushla's act is entitled "juggling and contemporary insanity" and combines visual and verbal humor. This year's festival will be the first for Jerry the Transformer's recyclemania performance but not the first for the Folk singing Partners in Song who close the Festival entertainment on Monday.

Miss Greenbelt Pageant

Eight contestants sponsored by local organizations and businesses are competing for the title of Miss Greenbelt. The contestants will be introduced and perform a country and western dance number on Friday evening, perform in the talent show on Saturday and appear in evening gowns for the final selection and crowning ceremony on Sunday. The Little Miss Greenbelt Pageant will be held in conjunction and a dozen or more young ladies from seven to ten are participating.

Sports and Contests

On the fields and courts of Greenbelt, many residents will take part in sports events from football to tennis to golf. Ping-pong, soccer, baseball, horseshoes, swimming and races will be part of the weekend. The Department of Recreation sponsors and coordinates many of these activities including the adult and children's Treasure Hunt which will send participants scurrying over Greenbelt spurred on by clues left in various locations in the city.

Special contests will be held for children and will begin with a diaper derby in which babies are enticed to crawl from a center circle to an outside ring where victory and parents await. Today See LABOR DAY, page 11

by Virginia Beauchamp

Speaking at the regular city council meeting on August 13, Betty Timer reminded council of two concerns which she felt might jeopardize the city's chances for receiving funding from the State of Maryland for renovation of part of the Center School facility for use as a senior center. One has to do with a not-so-far-distant deadline of March 1991, when application must be made to the State for such assistance. But a nearer problem, she pointed out, was an apparent decision by Prince Georges County to place Greenbelt in the same administrative area with Laurel, Beltsville and Vansville on a master plan for location of future senior centers.

Timer, who is Vice Chairperson of the Greenbelt Senior Citizens' Advisory Committee and an instructor for senior citizens for the Prince Georges Community College, pointed out that the existence of a strong center in Laurel and plans by Beltsville to apply for State money to develop a center could well take priority over Greenbelt in the granting of such renovation funds. If Greenbelt were grouped with Berwyn Heights, New Carrollton and Bowie, however, which have no such plans, Greenbelt's application would stand alone. "We've got to be careful where they put us," she told the News Review.

This political reality had first been pointed out to County Executive Parris Glendening in a letter of May 22, when City Manager James K. Giese expressed the city's concern that the State had previously turned down Greenbelt's application in the absence of a completed county master plan. He objected to the city's being grouped with Laurel and Beltsville. Glen Dale and Bowie, the letter said, are politically oriented with Greenbelt, while College Park, Riverdale and See SENIOR, page 3, col. 1

Kettler Brothers Win Contract For Indoor Swimming Pool

by Virginia Beauchamp

Greenbelt will have its indoor swimming pool at last! That good news came at a regular city council meeting on Monday, August 13, when council approved a contract for $2,892,214 with Kettler Brothers, Inc. of Montgomery Village. Following the unanimous vote, with Councilmember Edward Putens absent, Mayor Pro Tem Thomas X. White reflected back to the 1985 bond issue referendum in which Greenbelt voters agreed to borrow $6 million for a police station, parkland acquisition, and a swimming pool. "Tonight's action," he said, "probably concludes all the items . . . It's the end of a long road and very satisfying."

Six companies bid on the swimming pool project, based on a design by Sullivan and Almy, Inc., architects. All six proposals were very close, said City Planning Director Celia Wilson, with the final three within $45,000 of one another. The Kettler bid, which was the lowest, was originally $2,941,000; but through consultation with the architect and the city, certain modifications were made which reduced the price to the lower figure. None of these changes, Wilson stressed, would make any difference in the quality of the structure.

As shown in the architectural rendering, the window frames chosen were of a material called Kynar, which has a bluish coloring that would pick up the blue color of the suggested roofing material. Instead the window frames will now be made of a clear anodized aluminum, silver instead of blue, but equally effective. The change reduced the price by $11,000. Similarly, changing the gutter system would deduct almost another $11,000

Worksession on Safety For ERHS Pedestrians

A work session on safety for student pedestrians at Eleanor Roosevelt High School will be held on Thursday, August 30, at 8 p.m. in the city council room of the Municipal Building. Representatives of the public schools, the State Highway Administration (SHA) and state legislators have been invited to participate in the meeting.

Amy Darin, parent of a high school student living in Windsor Green on the south side of Greenbelt Road, wrote to school board member Suzanne Plogman with two requests. There is currently no sidewalk from Greenbelt Road to the entrance of the school building, she wrote in her letter, dated July 25. Students should not have "to dodge cars and school buses in order to enter the front door."

"Greenbelt Road itself is a serious concern," she continued, with speeding cars, no "vertical school zone" signs, a pedestrian crossing at the crest of a hill and crossing guards who are only present for a short time.

As a result of Derin's letter, Plogman has requested cost estimates for laying a sidewalk from Greenbelt Road to the school's front door in her letter of August 1 to school superintendent John A. Murphy. In the letter, she also asks Murphy to suggest steps the school system can take "to ensure the safe crossing of students at the Frankfort Drive intersection."

The City Council has "long been concerned" with the "hazardous crossing of Greenbelt Road at Frankfort Drive and the speed of traffic in that area," wrote Greenbelt's Mayor Gil Weidenfeld in a letter to Creston Mills, District Engineer for the SHA.

Moreland Suffers Massive Burns in Indiana Explosion

Greenbelt police officer Thomas Moreland, 24, suffered serious injury last Thursday while helping a relative work on a well. Moreland's clothing caught fire from an accidental explosion when gas in the well-house ignited, causing second and third degree burns over 50 percent of his body. He is in the hospital in critical but stable condition. Greenbelt's Fraternal Order of Police is collecting money to assist Pfc. Moreland, who is a five-year veteran of the department.

Moreland, his wife Julie and their six-month-old son Ben, residents of Hunting Ridge, were visiting Julie's relatives in Rushville, IN, when the accident occurred. Moreland was taken to Wishard Memorial Hospital, 45 miles away. Wishard, one of two Level 1 trauma centers in Indianapolis, has the comprehensive burn unit for Indiana and is the teaching hospital for the University of Indiana. Medical School. Hospital spokesperson Tim Johnson told the News Review on Wednesday that hospital personnel will know more about how Moreland is faring by early next week. Moreland's head and face escaped the burns, which are concentrated on his legs and left torso. The burn unit provides a special clean environment and constant surveillance of patients whose greatest threat is the opportunity for infection.

At the request of the Greenbelt FOP, the Indianapolis FOP has been providing information to Greenbelt and support for Julie. Funds from the Greenbelt FOP are already paying the cost for her of a motel room near the hospital. FOP's spokesperson Patrick McAndrew described Moreland as "an outstanding young man, a superb guy" who's had a "tough setback." The Greenbelt Fire Department will donate the proceeds of its August 26 Bull and Crab Feast to Moreland, who is a member.

The FOP is seeking community support for Moreland and his family. Donations may be sent to the Thomas Moreland Fund, c/o Greenbelt FOP, P.O. Box 94, Greenbelt, Md. 20768. Canners for donations have been placed in some businesses in Roosevelt Center. For more information, call the Greenbelt FOP at 474-7973.

Food, conversation, games and a couple of walks through the woods were the order of the day.

New Carrollton are geographically related. "Our seniors are not particularly sharing interests with the other seniors in the designated district," his letter said.

Glendening, in reply, in a letter of June 29, commented that work on the master plan is currently an internal document, in which "there are no short or long range plans that would preclude the establishment of a Greenbelt Senior activity center." But Timer wondered if this response was good enough. Various members of council wondered too, as they speculated on what the letter was in fact saying. In the words of Council Member Antoinette (Toni) Bram: "We don't know what he means."

Following a directive from council that evening, Giese has sent a second letter to Glendening, seeking more specific information. Giese pointed out that March is the deadline for state funding for fiscal years 1992 and 1993 (when the issue of renovation of the Center School as a community center would be on the front-burner). "The city's concern," the letter says, "... is that the (county's) plan ... could preclude the city from being eligible to receive a state grant. ... In that respect, your internal document has external implications." Giese also reminded Glendening that the city hopes for an opportunity to review the county's document as soon as it is completed.

Advisory Committee Report

Later in the council meeting Booker T. Hughes, Chairperson of the Senior Citizens' Advisory Committee, presented a report giving the results of an open forum on June 9 at which senior citizens were invited to present their ideas concerning needs and specific suggestions to enhance their lives. The topics generated by the forum broke down into five categories, Hughes said: transportation (keeping services within the city), recreational and social needs (a drop-in center and small meeting rooms, as well as a nutrition site), referral and information services (including a county-wide network, consumer and paralegal assistance, and central bulletin boards).

Safety issues were also emphasized.

Hughes said, such as improved lighting in the Co-op parking lot, a bridge across the stream on the lake path near St. Hugh's School, more rapid cleaning of sidewalks from snow and wet leaves, and regular patrolling of the lake path. Forum participants also hoped that members of youth groups, whether paid or unpaid, might be willing to volunteer their services on behalf of seniors.

In responding to the report, Mayor Pro Tem Thomas X. White wondered if the committee could consult with the city staff to prioritize these suggestions. "Some of these could be amenable to completion on the near term," he said, "others could be folded into long term planning, and maybe a third category would be impossible to address" at present. Mayor Gil Weidenfeld commented that the report should be submitted immediately to the committee developing plans for the Community Center to be established in Center School.

Sheldon Goldberg, speaking for residents in Greenbelt East, commented that the report seemed particularly to apply to people around the Centerway area. Many others, he said, are not able to walk to the Roosevelt Center and are "most isolated." The city must offer "some level of outreach," he said. He particularly recommended that a senior citizen bulletin board be added to the city's cable channel.

Timer also inquired about special staffing needs, such as for widows and widowers' groups. Currently the city has one staff member, Karen Haseley, who functions as a therapeutic recreational supervisor. "Is she supposed to take charge of everything?" Timer asked.

Haseley has developed an advisory group of senior citizens to help with recreational programs. This group plans to set up a table at the Labor Day Festival to solicit suggestions and desires from senior citizens attending the festival.

The committee represented by Hughes and Timer plan a follow-up meeting on August 30 to discuss their report. Other members are Marjorie Bergemann, Helen Geller, Tony Pisano, Leonie Penney, Bob Rudd, and Ben Woolery.

Indoor Pool

and a somewhat less expensive make of window eliminates another $2,000.

Flagpoles and related footings will be installed at a later date by the city's Public Works Department and were thus eliminated from the contract. Concrete retaining walls at the west elevation have been deemed not essential and certain special shaped windowsill bricks have also been eliminated. These changes, together with minor modifications in the grading, account for the rest of the deductions. One item, however, has been added as required by the Health Department—a revision to the grease and oil interceptor, which will cost $1200.

Wilson commented that the architect has been involved with the discussion of all of these modifications and approves the changes which have been made.

City Manager James K. Giese pointed out that the bid does not include renovation of the old bath house facility. He said that this decision was made because once a facility has been "de-occupied," it cannot be put into use again until the entire project called for in a contract has been approved by the County. If the natatorium were not completed by next summer's swim season and the bath house were part of that overall project, there would be no facility available for the outdoor pool, he indicated.

Groundbreaking

Giese bucked to council the question of what kind of groundbreaking ceremony to plan for. He suggested that a special event be designed as part of the Labor Day Festival weekend and that council consider "who should get dig up what has already been finished. Since NZI's bid was the same as the Kettler bid and NZI could begin immediately with the laying of the water line, which must go through the west parking lot, she recommended that NZI's bid receive approval.

Water Line

In connection with the just-approved swimming pool contract, council also okayed a $24,300 addition to the contract with NZI Corporation, which is rebuilding the sidewalks and parking lot driveways at Centerway. Since an eight-inch water line will be needed to service the newly approved natatorium, it is better to work its construction into the Centerway rebuilding while the renovation is in progress, Wilson argued, than to have to

In fact, excavation work for the pipeline, crossing from Centerway near the bank and leading back to the outdoor pool, began on Thursday, August 15.

Center Referendum

In response to a query about the completion date for the Centerway renovation, Giese conceded that work had been slower than originally projected. The project involves a great deal of underground piping work, he said. When would it be finished? "Sometime this fall," he said.

Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

On August 10 a resident in the 7700 block of Hanover Pkwy. reported an armed robbery that had taken place around 2:30 that afternoon. The resident had opened his door for what he believed to be a delivery and two men forced their way in, displaying a silver revolver. One of the men ordered the resident and two other people to lie on the floor while the other man searched the residence for money. The men took money and suspected crack-cocaine. Then the men made the three people take off their clothes and stay in the bathtub while they made their getaway.

Both men are described as black and about 20 years old; one is 5'7" and wearing jeans and a hooded sweatshirt; the other is 6'1".

On August 10, a visitor from New York was mugged in the 6300 block of Ivy Lane around 5 in the afternoon. While walking in a parking lot, a man drove up to her and asked directions; she continued walking. Then he came up (on foot) behind her and grabbed her purse, breaking its strap. He took money out of the purse, dropped the purse, and took off in his vehicle. He is described as black, 5'10", 150 lbs., and wearing a light colored shirt and pants. The last three numbers of the license plate of his vehicle are 403.

On August 11, Pfc. Michael Lanier arrested a 15-year-old resident male at the Holiday Inn after an employee there observed the boy hide suspected crack cocaine. The boy also had a small amount of suspected crack cocaine on him. Charged with possession of crack cocaine, the boy was released to his mother pending action by Juvenile Services.

On August 9 a resident in the 9000 block of Breezewood Terrace reported that their apartment had been broken into and a stack washer and dryer stolen. Entry had been gained through the ceiling.

Around 5 p.m. on August 12, an employee of the Golden Dome Arcade (Beltway Plaza) was assaulted by at least two boys; the youths had been asked to leave since they were hitting one of the machines. One of the boys is described as black, 12-14 years old, wearing a black T-shirt, blue shorts and black high top tennis shoes.

On August 13 it was discovered that office suites in the 7500 block of Greenway Center Drive had been broken into during the weekend. Several computers were dismantled and inside components were stolen. There were no signs of forced entry.

On August 13 securities and petty cash were reported stolen from a locked safe in an office suite in the 6400 block of Ivy Lane. Although there were no signs of forced entry into the office, the safe appeared to have been forced open.

On July 26 a breaking and entering was reported in the 400 block of Ridge Rd. Apparently two men tried to gain entry to an apartment by opening a window. The person who lives in the apartment, however, went to the window and scared them away. The men fled the area in a late model white Toyota Camry, with a MD license plate beginning with "VS." One of the men is described as black, 18-25 years old, 5'7", 150 lbs., black hair, wearing a black shirt, green pants, and a gold necklace. The other man is described as black, 18-25 years old, 6'2", 220 lbs., black hair, and wearing dark clothing. The men were accompanied by a woman, black, 18-25 years old, wearing a blue dress.

On July 30 two batting cages at Braden Field were broken into and the fan belts on two of the machines were cut and some balls were stolen.

Car Chase

On July 29, Pfc. Michael Lanier and Officer Marie Croisette responded to a report of people tampering with an auto in the 7200 blocks of Hanover Dr. When Officer Croisette arrived, she approached two people who fit the description given of the tamperers and who were standing next to an auto. They ran into a Chevrolet Corvette. Officer Croisette tried to stop the vehicle, but it sped onto Hanover Pkwy. Then it turned onto Greenbelt Road, eastbound, and tried to run into Officer Croisette's vehicle, but missed since she pulled over to the shoulder. Then the car tried to ram Pfc. Lanier's vehicle. Both police officers chased the car down Greenbelt Rd. to Cipriano Rd. and then to Rt. 450, where they were joined by the PG County Police, and then down the BW Parkway up to the DC line. The PG County Police continued the chase.

Eventually the Corvette was in an accident and the police apprehended the occupants. The driver, a 19-year-old nonresident male, was already wanted by the PG County Police for distribution of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). He was arrested by the U.S. Park Police for that and for numerous traffic violations. Officer Croisette will be obtaining an arrest warrant for him for assault on a police officer with a motor vehicle and fleeing and eluding. The other occupants of the Corvette were released.

Drugs and Disorderly

On July 30 Officer John Rogers investigated a report of someone tampering with a car to the rear of the Post Office and found a pipe that is commonly used to ingest a CDS inside a car there. The owner of the car was present and was arrested for possession of CDS paraphernalia; he was released on a citation pending trial. The owner is a 34-year-old resident male.

On August 2, Pfc. Michael Lanier arrested a 23-year-old resident male for trespassing after the man had been escorted away from Roosevelt Center for being disorderly but came back and refused to leave. He was released on a citation pending trial.

Vehicles

On August 3 Officer John Rogers stopped a 1990 Chevy Cavalier for a traffic violation on Kenilworth Avenue and Greenbelt Road and found that the license plates and the car had been reported stolen. Officer Rogers arrested the occupants, three teenaged nonresident males, and charged them with two counts of theft.

While responding to a burglar alarm on August 3, the Baltimore County Police recovered a 1987 Toyota Celica that had been stolen from the 6000 block of Cherrywood Court on August 1. No arrests were made.

On August 3 the Falls Church Police recovered a 1986 Mazda that had been stolen from Greenway Center on June 27.

While on patrol on August 6, Pfc. Steven Keller recovered a 1980 Datsun 280ZX that had been stolen from Howard County.

On August 6 the Prince Georges County Police recovered a 1985 Pontiac that had been stolen from Beltway Plaza on July 29.

On August 8 Pfc. Carl Schinner attempted to stop a 1989 Mitsubishi Montero travelling with difficulty in the 7700 block of Mandan Road towards Hanover Parkway. The men in the vehicle bailed out and ran away, each in a different direction. The car had been stolen from the 7800 block of Mandan Road.

Despite a foot chase and a search by Greenbelt and Park Police, involving K-9 units and a helicopter, the men escaped. One of them is described as black, 18 years old, 6'0", 180 lbs., black hair, wearing a black shirt and shorts and a black baseball cap.

On August 8, a red 1986 Toyota 4-runner, MD tags 960 446, was stolen from the 7500 block of Greenway Center Drive.

On August 10 a resident in the 9100 block of Springhill Court reported the theft of her red 1987 Chevrolet Nova, PA tags PAG 931.

After stopping a vehicle for a safety equipment violation on Kenilworth Avenue on August 10, Pfc. Robert Dowling learned from the Communications unit that the license plate had been reported stolen. He then arrested the driver, a 20-year-old nonresident male, and charged him with theft. The youth appeared before a District Court Commissioner and was released pending trial.

On August 11 the Metropolitan Police Department recovered a 1986 Toyota 4-runner that had been stolen from the 7500 block of Greenway Center Drive on August 8.

On August 11 Sgt. Doug Sappington stopped a 1985 Honda Accord that had been reported stolen and arrested its occupants, charging them with theft. All of them appeared before a District Court Commissioner; one of them, a 32-year-old nonresident female, was held on $1,000 bond pending trial. The other three, 20-year-old, 26-year-old, and 35-year-old males, two of whom are residents were released on personal recognizance pending trial.

On August 13, a University Park resident reported the theft of his burgundy 1986 Toyota Camry, MD tags PNB 675, from the parking lot of Beltway Plaza.

Vandalism to, thefts from, and attempted thefts of autos were reported in the following areas: the 6500 block of Capital Drive, the 9200 block of Cherrywood Terrace, the 52 court of Crescent Road, the 9100 and 9200 blocks of Edmonston Road, the 7500 block of Mandan Road, the 400 block of Ridge Road, and Springhill Drive and Cherrywood Terrace.

GHI Board Hears Review of Yard Line Policies; Okays Vinyl Siding

by Barbara Likowski

At two short summer meetings (July 9 and August 16) of the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI), Board of Directors, the Board set policy for yard lines, gave an okay for vinyl siding on a group of homes and set in motion a plan for a test case to alleviate a cracking problem in a row of masonry homes. President Wayne Williams chaired the meetings; all were present except that Director Margaret Hogensen was attending a Co-op meeting in Seattle on July 9.

Manager Ron Colton, responding to the board's previous request for a review of GHI's policy concerning yard lines, particularly those instances where members have extended their fences into common areas, gave a review of GHI's policy on yard lines. Because most masonry homes had yard lines defined by hedge lines, 90% of the cases of this problem, have been confined to frame homes. While yard lines for the frame homes had been set by the federal government at the time those homes were built, they had never been clearly marked or executed.

While not clearly delineated because they generally come up to trees, yards on the garden side can extend no more than 75 feet. Some extensions were found to impinge on property belonging to the school board, the city or Northridge Homeowners.

The problem began almost as soon as the development was taken over by the co-op in 1953. By 1954 the board had adopted a policy that all requests for boundary extension should come to the grounds committee. All allowed extensions would involve a written agreement that the corporation may reclaim the property at a future date. Encroachments on city property were noted and corrected.

However extensions continued to be made without permission from GHI. In 1965 the board directed that drawings showing the individual lot lines should be placed in the member's file with the mutual ownership contract. Colton continued by saying that he believed the intent was that each time a sale took place, the yard line would be confirmed. However, follow up of this was not always done and the board continued to deal with cases on an individual and inconsistent basis.

In August 1970 yard line regulations were adopted which have remained in force to the present. In 1983-84 the board codified its regulations (found in Section VI of the Rules and Regulations). Colton reported that staff had determined that these are adequate and provide a clear determination of yard lines.

Staff has had a policy in recent years of confirming that fences and other improvements are within the established yard lines upon resale or when permission is asked to erect new or replacement fences. The yard inspection program has also resulted in further identification of encroachments by fences. Also, ownership of fences is now being confirmed in writing to establish who is responsible for their upkeep.

Colton concluded by recommending that the board rescind the policy of allowing extensions of fences, sheds or other improvements into the common areas. Such fences, etc., continue to be erected despite reminders in the GHI Newsletter and the News Review. This makes resale inspections difficult and lengthy. Staff has no objection to members planting in the common areas but recommends that at resale fences be put back at the yard lines.

After discussion the board moved on August 16 to rescind the policies that yard lines may be extended into common areas. Staff is directed to continue the policy of requiring that fences and other improvements be reset within established yard lines upon resale or when a member requests approval of proposed improvements.

Colton will discuss with school authorities the matter of about one-fifth of an acre of yards found to be on school board property on Laurel Hill Road. He hopes to come to some agreement so that the use of the property may be retained.

Siding

Staff had been requested to examine alternatives for the mineral siding on four detached homes and about 32 duplex townhomes which were not replaced during the corporation's rehabilitation program. (Grouped with the masonry homes, they are the same except for having the siding instead of the brick veneer.) After two meetings with the residents in which an interest was shown in considering replacement siding, staff solicited bids from four contractors to install the replacement siding. Money for this would not impact on the membership as a whole but would be paid for by the individual homeowners. About $34,000 of rehab pre-payments by members could be made available to members interested in replacing siding.

The board instructed staff to call a meeting of members interested in the siding with R4 added for insulation and bring the results to the next board meeting for first reading.

On August 16 the board accepted for first reading the proposal of Citizens Remodelers to remove the existing siding, install insulation board and double five-inch horizontal siding on seven dwelling units at a price not to exceed $24,700. Management was also requested to look into whether siding on the block homes is wanted since management had found that the historic trust had not prohibited using siding on the block homes.

A contract for the installation of expansion joints to the building at 17 A-F Ridge Road by Landmark Masonry Restoration, Inc. for not more than $14,875 was passed for first reading at the August 16 meeting. LEA Associates had prepared studies for the board in which they had designed these expansion joints. The building at 17 A-F Ridge was chosen as a test case to use expansion joints at stress points in the building to accommodate cyclical changes which result in cracking. Measurements taken at the site indicated that building movements resulting from cyclical changes in the weather and soil content were of a range that could be helped by the expansion joints. This solution should prove to be less disruptive and more cost effective than installing footing and foundation drains which have been used by GHI on other sites.

Work should begin in October and take about eight weeks. GHI will repaint members' homes after the work has been completed.

Operating Statement

Paul Sinner, the corporation's comptroller, explained the first quarter operating statement. Because of a mathematical error a sum was approved but not reflected in the budget. An attempt will be made to make this up by reducing purchases. Most items are on budget.

The fee for service available to members had to be increased because GHI was losing money. The fee is now $30 an hour for carpenters and plumbers, $20 an hour for labor.

The board approved for second reading a contract with Wolf's Sealcoating for repairs to parking lots at 10 and 11 Southway; 20, 21 and 52/54 Ridge; 2 Gardenway and 2 and 11 Laurel Hill in an amount not over $36,000.

The September 6 work session on the maintenance budget was cancelled. The board decided to use one and a half to two hours of their September 13 meeting to go over that budget.

DANCING IN THE MALL

The Bavarian Austrian Dance Company will perform on Sunday, August 26 at 7 p.m. at the Roosevelt Mall.

Everyone Welcome

"Unity Through Community Involvement," the theme of the Labor Day Festival, describes a weekend when all Greenbelters can come together, both in volunteer work and for entertainment. Founded thirty-six years ago, the Festival has traditionally given Greenbelt organizations an opportunity to earn money and show off their activities. The Festival is a non-profit organization directed by a Steering Committee elected yearly. It receives its operating expenses from donations of local businesses and from a percentage of the profits from booths and carnival rides. All Greenbelt residents and organizations are invited to participate in the planning and activities of the Festival.

Labor Day Festival

Children will face off in several races, and there are other tests of skill, speed, agility or just plain luck for older children as well.

Carnival

The carnival will have exhibits, games, rides for everyone from young children to adults, and all types of food and refreshments. This year there will be 28 booths sponsored by local organizations. Some, like Boxwood Civic Association, back for its 20th year with the Zoo Dip, have sponsored a booth for many years. Other groups, such as the Greenbelt Swim Team, are new this year. Carnival visitors will find many of their favorite activities back as well—from the gold fish toss to bingo to the used book sale. There will be a wide array of refreshments available in the carnival area. The Information Please Display on Saturday features a record 17 individuals and groups displaying their work or interests to the community. Discount coupons for special matinee prices for carnival rides are available in many locations in the city. During the Opening Ceremonies there will be several drawings for free carnival ride tickets.

Shows and Exhibitions

Talented children and teens are putting the final touches on their acts for Saturday's Talent Show.

Lil' Rockers get down and out during the 1989 Children's Talent Show.

Singers and dancers have signed up but there is still space for a few last-minute performers (call Susan Breon, 982-9560). The Photography Exhibition and Competition offers the opportunity for photographers to display the best of their work. Awards are given for best color and black and white prints, young photographer and community favorite. No registration is necessary; bring photos to the Youth Center from 6 to 8 p.m., August 31. Artists must register in advance for the Labor Day Art Show (see application and rules in this issue of the News Review).

More than 50 Greenbelt pets were in last year's Children's Pet Show. This year cats, dogs, hamsters, gerbils, guinea pigs, rabbits and other pets are expected to vie for recognition in the 21st annual pet show.

Salute to Workers

The traditional Salute to Americans at Work has a local twist this year, with a Salute to Greenbelt Workers illustrated by slides shown on the Festival stage. Sue Schultz and Cass Cooney are taking slides of Greenbelters in a variety of jobs and professions in this community. They have been visiting local businesses and following Greenbelters to work sites outside the city. To be included in this show contact them at 441-1023 or 474-7756.

Parade

The parade is coming and should be one of the biggest and best, with its variety of marching and musical groups, giant balloons, floats, entertainers, dancers, clowns, and classic and crazy cars. The parade begins Monday, September 3 at 10 a.m. Check next week's News Review for a full report.

Help Wanted

Ticket sellers are still needed to staff the kiosks and sell tickets for the carnival rides. Mature teens as well as adults are invited to apply and should contact the Festival Committee Treasurer, Peggy King, on 345-3720. To apply to drive the Festival courtesy van, call Maryhelen Spear at 441-1063. She will also provide information about the opportunity to serve in the Festival's information booth.

LABOR DAY FESTIVAL AGAIN INCLUDES RACE

The D.C. Road Runner's Club will be conducting the 34th Annual 15K (9.3 mile) race on Sunday, September 2, starting at 6 p.m. at Braden Field. This TAC-certified course through the streets of Greenbelt goes into the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center through the Research Road gates and returns to Braden Field.

Several national age-group records have been made on this course. Lucious Anderson, 42, Silver Spring won in 1989 in 51:10, one of the few masters runners to win this event. Lynn Patterson, 26, of Fairfax, Va. was the first woman in 59:04.

A 3K (1.86 mile) run around Greenbelt Lake will start at 6:10 p.m.

These races are part of the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival and co-sponsored by the Greenbelt Recreation Department. Sign up at the race.

Recollections of an Early Greenbelter

Part II

In this second in a series of recollections by Greenbelt's only woman mayor, Elizabeth Harrington finds her way into politics and gets hooked.

Believing that her memories of wartime Greenbelt and her role in local politics might interest our readers, we here share with you excerpts from that interview. The student interviewer was Robert Douglas.

We are grateful to the Tugwell Room of the Greenbelt Library for making this transcription available.

Then I stumbled into politics. I really had no great interest in politics, but I suppose some people, at least, thought I had exercised community leadership and felt that it should be expressed in politics. There were no political parties. There should be none in a small community. They were nonpartisan.

The first time that I ran for office, I believe there was one other woman running, I am not certain of that, but there had been one woman member of the council several years before. It made no great splash, I don't know why. But at any rate, four men and I were elected to the council. We served for two years, which was our term of office. After that I had come to realize that if you really believed in community betterment, then there is no better place to work than at the political level. There's a certain kind of power, even on a small scale, in a little community of 7,500. By that time, I really was interested in politics after serving for two years, and realizing that the town council was really the body that made the policies for the community, and that took charge of the administration of those policies, although we had a town manager who was the person responsible for the policies as set by the council. The second time I ran I received the highest number of votes, and therefore, the four men who were elected also, chose to have me as their Mayor, because I had received the highest number of votes—this was traditional in the community, if you can speak of traditions in a young community like that.

This was 1949 to 1951. I had been on the council from 1947 to 1949. I had also been president of the county PTA, and many people don't know anything about the PTA. We had no juvenile court in the community, for instance, and we were getting that. Young offenders were locked up with criminals in the county jail—we didn't approve of that. The telephones were paid for by the PTA—we didn't approve of that, we thought they should be paid for out of public funds. We believed very much in public education, my husband and I both. We believed that in a democracy children should go to school in public schools. Be that as it may, we felt that there were a great many things that needed to be done in the community, and that for some reason, a woman could do them better. I was being supported, of course, by my husband. I was unemployed. I could therefore be very independent, I could say what I wanted to say. He always supported me in this. And I could do what I wanted to do in the community. I was there all day, the men all had jobs outside of the community, they didn't know what was going on. I did.

One time a man called me and said, "You know the men's room at the theatre is filthy." And I said, "Well, no, I've never been in it, so I wouldn't know about that. There are four men on the council, why don't you call one of them?" His answer was, "They will do nothing about it. You will, because you're interested in children, and the boys go into that filthy men's room." So I made an appointment with the manager, and told him what I had been told, and he cleaned it up. So I was told later—I didn't go inspect it.

Problems

We had a great many problems. It's interesting that even in a little community the corruption, mismanagement, misuse of funds... all of the things that you get on a larger scale.

We had a town manager, for instance, who was paying himself more than he had been authorized to pay himself. We exposed that, primarily I did because the men didn't want to touch it with a 10-foot pole. He resigned.

The town manager... was considered a very outstanding, upright man of the community. He was active in his church, and was active in I don't know what men's organizations—we had them all—Rotary, Kiwanis, and everything else. Also, the (other council members) felt that they didn't want to get involved in such a controversy, and they were fairly sure that he would make quite a controversy of it. He came to my home with all his papers to show me all the good things he had done for the community. And he urged me not to expose him. I just listened as politely as I could; I didn't say anything, but he knew I was not going to change my position.

The churches were very important in the community, they exercised quite a community leadership, and especially the Community Church, which was the oldest. There was a young minister there who was very interested in the community and in its betterment, its improvement. And he was a hale fellow, well met, and people liked him and knew him. He was really quite a help to me, because when I decided to expose some of the malpractices of the council, I talked it over with my husband, who was perfectly willing for me to do this; I don't think I am a feminist, I don't think I am an aggressive woman, and I still had some qualms about saying unpleasant things about people in public. I went to talk to Eric Braund who was the Community Church minister about it, and he said to me, "Somebody has to expose it, and I don't know of anybody better to do it than you." So, we had an investigation apart from the council meetings in which we talked about the town manager and the fact that one of the council members had had secret meetings of the council which was in contradiction to the Charter.

Unfortunately I had to go to Mississippi again, and while I was away, the four men on the council decided not to do anything about the town manager. So when I came back I had to write a statement which I had duplicated and distributed to every house in the community on why

Best wishes for a speedy recovery to Helen Siehl of Plateau Place. Helen, a patient at Prince Georges Hospital since August 3, is recovering slowly. Your cards, letters and prayers would be greatly appreciated. Making her hospital stay more cheerful, Helen's son Andy from Florida, and her daughter Betty from California, came home for a week.

Plans for the Siehl's (Robert and Helen) 50th Anniversary Celebration have had to be postponed. Bob and Helen Siehl would like to publicly thank President and Mrs. Bush for the anniversary greeting they recently received from the White House; it was very special, indeed.

Also a special happy belated birthday wish goes to Helen from her children, grandchildren (18) and her great-grandchildren (8).

Ten ERHS students participated in the George Washington University's Science and Engineering Apprenticeship Program (SEAP). The annual eight-week program selects gifted students seeking careers in science, engineering and mathematics to intern at 24 U.S. Department of Defense laboratories in the metropolitan Washington area. Student interns were selected on the basis of their interest in science and related fields, outstanding academic performance, scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test, teacher recommendations, and extracurricular activities. Roosevelt students were Rajesh Bala-krishnan, Bob K. Cuk, Anthony J. DeMarco, Wayne F. Lee, John

I thought the town manager should be fired. And I think it was the result of that that the town manager resigned. He got a better position with the public housing authority so, perhaps he thought it was good for him. At any rate, the community knew what kind of man that we had as the town manager and it took us some little time to select a new town manager.

During that time, my duties became exaggerated. I did things that the manager should have been doing, but because I was the mayor and, in the community all day, they fell to my lot to do. I would do them and then report to the council what had been done.

We had quite a remarkable relationship though, I think, the council and I.

I think probably the main issue with which I was dealing was that of the leadership of a woman. I told you that I think I was the first woman mayor in the state, and some of my friends in PTA, some of my men supporters wanted to have me named to the Democratic Central Committee. Some of the important people in the Democratic Party in the County said they wouldn't have any woman, and if they had any woman, that they would not have that Mrs. Harrington, that she had too independent a mind and ideas. I don't know whether anyone else thinks this or not, but I think that I was somewhat of a forerunner, that I somewhat paved the way for women to be in politics. Now we have women on the county council, we have women on the county school board, we have a woman in the House of Representatives in Congress.

Tour of City for Foreign Visitors Gives Local Reporter a Fresh Look

by Barbara Likowski

This is a continuation of our reporters trip through Greenbelt with Polish city planners, Dr. Janusz Kot, University of Lodz; Maria Niemczyk, Ministry of Physical Planning, Warsaw; and Dr. Zbigniew Zuziak, chief architect, Cracow.

The first part of the trip was through old Greenbelt, Capital Office Park and Springhill Lake. We take up from there.

Driving to Beltway Plaza and then back past the Golden Triangle where construction is ongoing, past Greenbelt Park, where the visitors were told about the overnight campground for visitors to the nation's capital, we stoppended for a brief look at the Belle Pointe townhouse offices and residences. Here Giese gave an example of how the city could influence the way construction might go and explained how the noise of the Beltway made the property undesirable for building houses as the city would have preferred. A compromise resulted in 10 acres being added to the Attick lake park, the buildings closest to the Beltway to be constructed as office buildings which will buffer the noise for those townhouses which would be built away from the Beltway.

While riding, the Poles wanted to know more about the problems associated with development. They commented on the good roads. The roads and other public facilities have not kept up with growth, Giese said. In the '80s, Celia Wilson, the city's planning and development coordinator, explained that the philosophy in the county changed and one of the most undesirable aspects of growth, congestion, has started to be addressed. It is still years behind. By means of the public facilities test that is now required, at least a large percentage of roads and other public facilities must be in before construction is permitted to start. Weidenfeld added that now, too, developers are required to leave a certain amount of green space or replace trees that had to be removed.

Are companies moving here from Washington, D.C.? the officials queried. Some are coming from D.C., some are expanding businesses already here, some are government contractors, Giese replied. Some major companies now have offices here.

Who or what pays for city services? they asked. Some revenue comes from property tax, some from the city's share of its citizens' state income tax.

Greenbelt East

On we went to Greenbelt East, the most recently developed part of the city. After touring the Greenway shopping center, Maryland Trade Center, Commerce Center and Hanover Office Park, we passed the wire deer which was made for what will be the entrance to Schrom Hills Park. The park has 48 acres and will be developed as a neighborhood park with playing fields and a six-acre pond. Giese explained that new developments now must have stormwater ponds to control water runoff, as we passed one such pond.

Down one of the city's newer streets, Mathew Lane, we saw more large single family houses, looking perhaps as Boxwood had looked 30 years ago, rather bare, with small trees giving promise of shade to come. Passing Windsor Green condominiums, we turned at Soil Conservation Road to give the guests a view of Goddard Space Flight Center, but only from the road.

Then we passed Greenwood Village, Greenbriar/Glen Oaks and Eleanor Roosevelt senior high school. All of this area was built in the last 15 years but already is very much a part of the city. Everywhere we saw green space in varying amounts.

The tour ended fittingly at the Greenbelt museum where a barbecue had been planned for the Polish guests and other county

— photo by Beverly Palau and city officials. But first the officials were given a tour of the museum by Nat Shinderman. They graciously looked at the 50-year-old house that was new compared to the centuries old houses in Europe.

There, listening to Dr. Kot talking about making the proposed training center a pilot project for more such centers, of possibly starting a sister-city relationship with American cities—this reporter could not help but be grateful for the city we have, for the democratic principles already in practice here.

CITY NOTES

The Special Details Crew removed graffiti from the underpasses, worked on digging a conduit trench at the Police Facility, installed a new guardrail on Crescent Road, and worked at the Public Works Facility.

Elderly Disabled Renters Eligible for Tax Refund

The State of Maryland provides a Renters' Tax Credit Program for renters age 60 and over or those 100% disabled. Eligible renters can receive a tax credit or direct check payment of up to $600 a year based upon a comparison of the applicant's income and the amount of "assumed" property taxes in the person's monthly rent.

Persons must apply each year in order to receive this credit. The application filing deadline is September 1, 1990 and eligible applicants will receive payment by direct check from the State of Maryland.

For an application form, additional eligibility requirements or other information about the program, call the Department of Assessments and Taxation at 1-800-492-3790. Application forms are also available at local Assessment offices.
